

I think the do not call list should continue. If I'm interested in learning about a new product or service, I'm mature enough to do the research myself. In addition, they call at late hours of the night, there have been times when they have woken up my 12 month old daughter when call at 8:50PM. For some we work early and are already in bed. They don't care-it's there job to do. I am a strong supporter of the do not call list. My house has been much more peaceful with it in place!
